Oil and shipping operations course

Anyone involved in oil trading or shipping operations needs a solid combination of knowledge and skills to do their job competently.

GAC Training & Service Solutions has developed this foundation course in Oil & Shipping Operations to provide core skills for those new to oil operations or in need of re-training.

The course covers:

- Introduction to international trade and English law
- International Sale of Goods (including Incoterms)
- Trade finance and Letters of Credit
- Bills of Lading
- Carriage of Goods by Sea (including charterparties, laytime and demurrage)
- Cargo insurance and claims
- Commercial litigation, arbitration and mediation

The multi-module course is delivered on site, online or at shipping and trading hubs around the globe. To minimise time out, it is condensed into two days with a reading list to be completed beforehand. Upon successful completion, course participants will be certified as competent to handle the daily demands and challenges that arise in oil and shipping operations.

Who should attend?

This course is designed for anyone working within the shipping industry such as ship owners, operators, brokers, managers, charterers and commodity traders.

In 1999, he returned to BP (where he began his career) and has most recently worked as a consultant to a US trading company and others. David also lectures for numerous institutions and is a member of the Energy Institute.
